

Painting Bombs and Missiles

For the longest time I hated painting bombs and missiles for the aircraft I built. Paint the front end, let dry, paint the back end. Double paint every time, getting paint all over your fingers. Time consuming and messy. I discovered this trick by accident. I use a squeezer clamp to hold the bombs or missiles now. I can place several weapons in the clamp and spray paint them in the clamp. Once they are dry remove them and touch up the nose and tail. Much easier and neater.
