

Rolling Tools

I don't know how many of you guys have the problem of tools rolling off your work desk onto the floor (or your foot or leg). I myself have been stabbed by one of my work tools numerous times. I finally made a way to stop it from happening any more. I taped a toothpick (a piece of sprue would likely work as well) to the handle of the tool so it is no longer round and can't roll off any longer.

My feet are very grateful...
