

Rubber Cement

Another trick I use when building most of my airplane models is when I am getting ready to paint the model I rubber cement the canopy and landing gear doors to the airplane. That way I can paint it as a whole. It allow allows for camo schemes to flow smoothly over the gear doors when necessary. When done painting and the paint is dry you just pop off the gear doors and canopy and rub off the rubber cement.

